Regular driving licence checks should form a key part of any Health & Safety policy.

At Agility Group, we recommend checking all your drivers at least twice a year, or once a quarter if you have any high-risk fleet drivers. As part of this process, all drivers need to complete a mandate and consent to the licence being checked electronically. This mandate is valid for 3 years and their information will be submitted to the DVLA.

Driver licence checking through Agility Fleet ensure that:

- Information on a driver's licence is correctly described
- A driver's licence status and which vehicles they are entitled to drive
- A driver's licence validity dates
- Any current endorsements and points on the driving licence
- A driver is disqualified or not
- You receive automated instant responses
- A manageable direct debit payment option

What are the costs?

Ultimately our aim is to ease the administration burden of the driver licence check process and to keep any costs to you at a minimum. Dependent on employee size, there will be a small set up fee and each driver licence check is £5 +VAT.

THE FACTS

Asking your drivers if they have a valid and clean driving licence is not enough when it comes down to your duty of care as an employer and meeting legal standards for drivers.

Licence status can change in a matter of hours. A recent RAC Insurance survey found that 25% of motorists surveyed who already had penalty points did not inform any organisation when they received them, while only 13% would tell their employer if they incurred any.

The fact that employees could be driving for work when – in short – they shouldn't, presents a potential legal minefield for you and the reputation business.
